

From Oxen Safaris
to Summit Trips:
Technology for any Adventure

Head Guide for Mountain Adventures in Norway, Jens Erixon, knows first-hand the importance of gear protection. User of the rugged OtterBox 3600 PDA case for only 4 weeks now, Erixon is sold for life!

Erixon leads adventures from musk oxen safaris to summit trips and is always looking for high quality equipment, especially technology for safety reasons.

"I use to protect my MDA 3 PDA when I am guiding my clients to the mountains in Norway," explains Erixon. "We have already been through heavy rainfall and at altitude of 2300 meters without any problems."

PDAs provide Mountain Adventures the ability have a cell phone for emergencies. Out on these remote trips, there's no room for technology uncertainty especially in the event of an accident.

"We choose the OtterBox 3600 because it's is very user friendly and easy to install the PDA in the box. It's also easy to use other accessories such as Bluetooth GPS Wireless headset," explains Erixon. "Finally, the OtterBox has a low price point, which is great for our business when we have to purchase multiple cases."

The OtterBox 3600 helps Mountain

Adventures to:

- Keep their PDAs dry
- Keep it safe from impact
- Extended battery time (PDAs exposed to the elements have a shorter battery life than those enclosed in an Otter Box case)

"I have been at the highest mountain in the park which is 2286 meters and it was - 3 degrees C. My phone is usually eating batteries when it's cold, but when I used the OtterBox 3600, the battery-time was actually extended with at least one hour," said Erixon. "I plan to run some more tests during the winter here when the temperature might be as low as - 40° to - 45° C."

Mountain Adventures recommends OtterBox to all types of organizations including military, park rangers, rescue forces and other companies operating in remote areas and arctic climates.

"I definitely recommend the OtterBox, both for my clients and also for our co-operation partners. It is a great and inexpensive way of protecting a PDA. It is also very user-friendly."
